The city of Madison is holding its annual pet vaccination day Feb. 17 from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the City Garage, across from the Fire Station on Third Street.

Madison residents can have dogs and cats vaccinated for rabies ($9), distemper and parvo ($8). Dog and cat licenses will also be available for $5, but cannot be purchased unless the animals have been vaccinated for rabies. Starting April 1, the license fee doubles.

Dr. Mark Holt, a Granite City veterinarian, will administer the vaccinations.

Neighbors grill EPA over lead

GRANITE CITY — If the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has its way, Granite City will have a landmark to rival Monk's Mound.

The plan favored by the EPA would double the size of the 240,000-ton pile of lead slag and battery casings in the 1500 block of State Street, according to Brad Bradley, the federal EPA's remedial project manager for the site.

"You'd be able to ski off of it," said Tom Long, senior toxicologist for the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Long was one of about 160 people present Thursday night at a public hearing held by the EPA to explain its preferred method of dealing with lead contamination in the city from 80 years of lead smelting at NL Industries, now Taracorp.

The plan — estimated to cost $25 million and take 18 to 30 months to complete — would involve scraping top soil from 55 city blocks in a one-mile radius around the site and consolidating it with the big Taracorp pile. Airborne lead was deposited in the yards over decades of smelting operations at the plant.

Valentine daze: Boxers, bonbons make happy heart

By Lucyann Boston
and Andy Sloring
Staff writers

GRANITE CITY — Hang onto your bow and arrow and unfurl your cupid wings. As you fly off to do your shopping for Valentine's Day, sex will be cheaper than candy and a whole lot less expensive than flowers.

Take that most traditional of Valentine gifts, the 1-pound, heart-shaped box of candy. The least expensive box we encountered was one for $6.97 at K mart.

Also available at K mart are lacy red bikini panties for women at $1.79 and men's red bikini briefs at $4, while Valentine print boxers cost $4.56.

For the more traditional (and well-heeled), there is that old standby of romance: jewelry. Hudson's Jewelers Ltd. in Bellemore Village, Granite City, has jeweled pendants with rubies, sapphires and diamonds, ranging in price from $79 to $599.

Skotty's Jewelry, 1304 Niedringhaus Ave., Granite City, has gold and gold-filled heart-shaped pendants ranging from $5 to $100. But their best-selling Valentine's item is cards, naturally — cards that proprietor Mary Pirtle says are addressed to "wives, sweethearts, darlings and all that mushy stuff."

Of course, if it's a card you want, Jan's Hallmark store in Crossroads Plaza has 38 shelf feet devoted to Valentine's Day cards alone. If you purchase $10 worth of other merchandise, you can buy a Valentine Bear ($3.95, normally $15) whose paws will hold a card or a rose (or, one supposes, a heart-shaped pendant).

The best-selling item at Jan's said Advertising Manager Don Tichannen Sr., is Precious Moments porcelain figurines — collectibles that range from $15 to $80.

If the flame of love is burning a hole in your pocket, there is no limit to where your heart and your dollars can fly — especially if you want to cross the river to some of St. Louis' pricier stores.

In the second floor lingerie department at Dillard's in the Galleria in St. Louis, there are panty, garter belt and stocking sets for $24, and all lace bustiers to go with them; skimpy teddies that begin at $24; slinky red nightgowns for $72; and scarlet, lace-trimmed peignoirs for $88.

On the first floor in the men's furnishings department there are T-shirts festooned with hearts and Cupids for $16, red silk boxers with hearts on them for $30 and kimono-style silk robes for $70.

That's nothing compared to what you'll find in the candy department in the lower level of the store. There, an assortment of Godiva chocolates in a flower print, hat box-style container sells for $75 and two pounds of Godiva chocolates in a cloth-covered paisley lame box cost $255.

City would be hot spot in county waste plan

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A proposed county plan would make the city the home of a waste-to-energy plant burning 300 tons of trash a day.

The proposal, approved Wednesday by the Madison County Environmental Control Committee, calls for incineration plants of the same size in both Granite City and Alton.

Granite City and Alton were chosen because both have steel mills that would serve as customers for steam or electricity produced by the incinerator.

A third plant, handling 500 tons per day, is proposed for Sauget to handle trash from St. Clair County.

The proposal will go before the Madison County Board later this month. Originally, the committee had ruled out incineration in favor of landfill management in order to meet state-mandated solid waste management standards.

Both the landfill and incineration alternatives were originally part of a plan drafted by Executive Services, a Collinsville firm, for a Waste Management Task Force that included Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties.

The three-county proposal called for a 1,000-ton-per-day facility in the Granite City area and a 500-ton-per-day facility in or near Alton. Capital cost for the plants was estimated at $206,540,000.

The Madison County committee's proposal calls for a modification of the plan to make each county responsible for its own waste-to-energy facilities.

Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse said Friday this is the first he has heard about locating an incinerator in Granite City.

"If it happens, it'll be great," he said.

But Cruse said it is his understanding the county board's approval would only amount to an OK for further study. He said the board "will undoubtedly" work with city officials in the future and that he is not ready to accept the proposal without more details.

"The county can't tell us, or any other (See INCINERATOR, Page 8A)

Grand jury to meet again on child case

By Valerie Evenden

EDWARDSVILLE — An investigation by a Madison County grand jury into the suspected abuse death of 2-year-old Heather Nicole Watson has been continued until Thursday.

Heather, who lived with her mother and stepfather, Kathy and James Phillips, in the 3000 block of Iowa Street, died at 2:10 a.m. Feb. 2, during emergency surgery at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Witnesses called before the grand jury Feb. 8 included the mother, stepfather, the stepfather's parents, a maternal grandmother and employees of Hair Shack Limited, a hair salon at 3050 Iowa St., that reportedly is the employer of the stepfather.

James and Freda Phillips of Edwardsville are the owners of Hair Shack and the parents of the stepfather.

Detectives executed a search warrant Tuesday at the Hair Shack, specifically looking for documents, calendars, books or memoranda listing appointments at the salon on Jan. 29.

The warrant also specified seizure of any document pertaining to work schedules on Jan. 29 and sales receipts for the (See JURY, Page 8A)

Security people stop alleged pilfering of pallets

A St. Louis man was booked on three charges at 5:55 p.m. Feb. 6 outside the K mart store, 3655 Nameoki Road.

Police arrived at the rear of the store and found Sharon Magos, K mart loss prevention manager, and a security officer detaining Burnis R. Taylor, 32. Taylor had two wooden pallets valued at $16 in the bed of a pickup truck and had been seen by three store employees loading the items in the truck, Magos alleged.

The suspect had tried to leave and Magos attempted to get the truck keys from the ignition to detain the man. Taylor allegedly shoved the loss prevention manager and twisted her left hand.

Eleven hand-rolled cigarette butts were seen in an open ashtray of Taylor's truck, it was alleged. A field test on two of them butts showed them to be cannabis.

Taylor was charged with theft, battery and unlawful possession of cannabis. He posted $256 bail and was released.

Man booked for battery

Responding to a disturbance call at a residence in the 1900 block of Grand Avenue, police were told John Womack of that address had been arguing with a woman family member and had become uncontrollable Feb. 5.

Womack, 48, walked up to officers, began talking loudly and then allegedly cursed an officer and poked him in the chest with a finger and was arrested.

Womack began struggling and kicking and allegedly struck two patrolmen with his feet. He was charged with two counts of battery, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. In a court appearance Feb. 6 Womack pleaded innocent to the charges. Bond was set at $5,000 and he was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Granite City

Wallet with $21 stolen
Judy Reidelberger of Glen Carbon reported Feb. 5 that her black wallet valued at $40 was stolen from her purse at Coddage Junior High School. Credit cards, $21 and a driver's license were in the wallet.

Accident at 20th-State
James B. Wayland, 70, of St. Louis was hurt in a two-car collision at 2 p.m. Feb. 6 at 20th and State streets. Kenneth L. Shepard, 62, of the 1800 block of Poplar Street said he was driving east on 20th when his car was struck by Wayland's southbound auto. Wayland was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Three hurt on Nameoki
Three persons were injured in a traffic accident on Nameoki Road 40 feet north of Fehling Road at 11:15 a.m. Feb. 5.

Herman D. Crofts, 54, of the 600 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was traveling south when his car was struck from the rear by a station wagon operated by John Wise Jr., 62, of the 100 block of Briarwood Drive, authorities were told.

Crofts was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Also suffering injuries were Wise and a passenger in Crofts' car, Brenda G. Wolleber, 26, of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Auto strikes school bus
An accident at 7:40 a.m. Feb. 5 involving a school bus and an auto occurred on Madison Avenue about 75 feet south of Nameoki Road.

None of the 15 young passengers on the bus apparently was hurt, but a child in the car was injured.

Nancy L. Barnes, 43, of the 2400 block of Edison Avenue, driver of the bus, was stopped in traffic in a northbound lane.

Donna M. Range, 38, of the 2100 block of Pine Street, also northbound, said she applied the brakes on her car but slid on icy pavement and hit the bus. Lauren N. Range, 6, a passenger in the car, suffered an injury.

Burglary at reading room
A burglar entered the Christian Science Reading Room, 1336 19th St., probably through the ceiling, damaged property and stole $25, it was reported Feb. 5.

The intruder apparently gained access from the roof and then through a space between the old ceiling and a new suspended ceiling.

lance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Also suffering injuries were Wise and a passenger in Crofts' car, Brenda G. Wolleber, 26, of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Auto looted of wallets
Roger E. Michaelson Jr. of the 2000 block of Ohio Avenue reported Feb. 1 a burglar entered his car, parked in the driveway at his residence, and stole a sample case containing assorted novelty items, including pens, wallets and lighters. The items were valued at a total of $100.

Conduct warrant served
Kenneth Wayne Hill, 17, of the 3000 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was arrested Feb. 1 at 22nd and Benton streets on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of disorderly conduct.

$50 sewing machine gone
Roy E. DeJayses of the 2100 block of Benton Street reported Feb. 4 that a burglar had broken into his home and taken a sewing machine valued at $50.

Charges against driver

Following a hit-and-run accident on Washington Avenue at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 31, officers located a vehicle allegedly involved and arrested the driver, Richard A. Rodgers, 30, of the 2500 block of Iowa Street.

He was standing next to his tan car, which allegedly had fresh damage. He had suffered a small cut to the forehead but declined medical attention when taken to police headquarters.

It was contended Rodgers had driven south on Washington Avenue and struck a car owned by Walter Christiansen of the 2600 block while it was parked facing south in front of the latter's residence. The impact pushed the parked auto forward and to the right.

Rodgers was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while his license was suspended and leaving the scene of an accident with vehicle damage.

Vehicle entered

Items were found strewn outside a 1984 Chevrolet Suburban owned by Ruby Sullivan of the 1900 block of Adams Street at 5:42 a.m. Feb. 7.

Miscellaneous papers and small items belonging to Sullivan were on the ground and a window of the vehicle had been broken, police said. It was not immediately determined what property was taken.

Phone box damaged

A vandal knocked off and damaged a telephone junction box at the rear of Joseph B. Buckingham's home in the 1800 block of Grand Avenue. Telephone lines also were torn down and were found laying on the ground in an alley at the rear of the home, it was reported Feb. 6.

Winning ticket sold in Mitchell

A winning ticket in Monday's Little Lotto drawing was sold at The Party Shop, 5429 Maryville Road. It was one of six sold statewide.

Ozell and Augusta Clemons of St. Louis are the lucky winners of $41,315, their share of the nearly $250,000 grand prize pool.

Mable Lewis, an employee of the shop, sold the Clemons their winning ticket. Glenn Yates and Lorraine Raster are the co-owners of the business.

Raster said another winning lottery ticket was sold at the shop for the Saturday, Feb. 3, Lotto drawing. That winner picked five of the six winning numbers and received $3,826.

Raster said the Clemons are regular lottery ticket customers at the shop. The Party Shop will receive 1 percent or $413 for selling the latest winning ticket.

Costello PACs in contributions

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — As Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, gears up for the 1990 elections, Political Action Committees (PACs) and out-of-state contributors are financing a growing portion of his campaign, according to new financial disclosure forms.

But, Rep. Glen Poshard, D-Cartersville, scaled back his fund-raising activities from all sources during the second half of 1989, actually spending more than he took in, Federal Election Commission documents show.

Since July 31, the proportion of Costello's campaign contributions coming from sources outside of Illinois grew to 68 percent, Federal Election Commission documents show.

Leukemia meeting

The Leukemia Society of America, Gateway Chapter will hold its regular Family Support Group meeting Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. The meeting will be held until 9 p.m. at the Barnes Clayton Building, Rooms C and D, 4353 Clayton Ave., St. Louis.

All patients having leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's Disease or multiple myeloma are welcome to attend, as well as their family and friends. For additional information, the Leukemia Society can be called at (314) 878-0780.

During the first six months of 1989, however, contributions from individuals within the state accounted for the bulk of his campaign funds. Costello only received 18 percent of his contributions from out-of-state donors during that period.

"As the elections get closer the interest of national groups grows," said Brian Lott, a press aide for Costello.

Although Costello prefers to rely on Illinois contributors, he has not held a major fund-raiser in the state during the time covering the FEC's second reporting period, according to Lott.

"Costello prefers to focus on individuals from Illinois — friends and neighbors who are interested in his campaigns," Lott said. "In general, voters are more receptive to candidates who do not appear to be financed by a collection of outside interests."

Costello plans to hold an Illinois fund-raiser in late spring or early summer, which should reduce the proportion of outside donors, Lott added.

Between July 31 to Dec. 31, the most recent reporting period, Costello collected 67 percent of his $33,334 in contributions from PACs. Poshard only raised $529 during the period, $100 from PACs.

"I'm not going to accept any more PAC money and I'm going to put a limit individual contributions," Poshard said. "I don't think there's a need to build up a big bank account if you don't have any opposition." Costello, who has been active in the House on transportation issues, accepted a number of large contributions from PACs representing the airline, automobile, mass transit, railroad industries and related-interest groups.

For example, he collected

$2,000 from National Automobile Dealers PAC, and $500 from the Transportation Political Education League.

During all of 1989, only 32 percent of Costello's contributions came from PACs and 34 percent came from out-of-state contributors, according to the FEC reports.

Poshard raised $4,244 last year, but spent $13,861 for campaign-related activities during the second half of the year alone. His campaign contributed more than $6,000 to other Democratic political candidates in Illinois, including $1,200 to gubernatorial candidate Attorney General Neil Hartigan and $1,250 to state senator Phil Rock of Oak Park.

"It does them better use than it would just sitting in my account," Poshard said.

Club founder up for award

Joe W. Roberts has been nominated by the board of Coordinated Youth Services for the first annual Martin Luther King Drum Major Award sponsored by the Gateway East Metropolitan Ministry.

The awards are presented to persons in the community who are representative of those who have taken time to help mankind by giving of their talents and abilities so that others may live more abundantly. Roberts was nominated in the category of Outstanding Achievement in Service to Youth.

In 1986, Roberts visited the 1986 National Junior Olympics in St. Louis. He was disappointed in the few participants from Illinois. As a result, he decided to form an organization to provide an athletic program for children from his community.

With the help of the United Way, Roberts organized on a volunteer basis daily summer activities and sponsored field trips to the Illinois State Fair, Grant's Farm, Jaycees Circus, Cardinal baseball games and the Botanical Gardens in St. Louis.

Roberts established and operates a summer program serving

Joe Roberts
... of Eagle Park

over 250 youths. This program operates for 10 weeks each summer. He is continuing the operation of these programs totally on a volunteer basis.

The Joe W. Roberts Athletic Club now serves over 200 young people per year. Activities include baseball, softball, basketball, soccer, track and crafts.

The club now sends teams from 10 to 18 years of age to participate in the Junior Olympics in basketball and track.

This year Roberts coordinated several basketball teams for boys and girls participating in Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) tournaments. The beginning competition was held in Madison and Venice.

The team for 16-year-old boys progressed to participate in the National AAU Playoffs held at the University of Kentucky. Roberts raised funds locally to enable the boys to make the week-long trip to Frankfort, Ky. Many of them had never traveled outside their community.

The Venice and Eagle Park communities have rallied around the organizations established by Roberts, a CYS spokesman said.

Communitywide activities at special times such as Halloween and a summer picnic bring together the total community—senior citizens down to toddlers.

Roberts has been a resident of Madison County for 52 years. He and his wife, Rosetta, have twin sons, Kerry and Kevin, aged 29. The family has lived in Eagle Park since 1961.

Computer adds to library services

On Jan. 16, the Granite City Public Library began checking out materials by computer at its main library location.

The system used is similar to those used by supermarkets. The bar code on each book or other item will match up in the computer with the bar code attached to the borrower's library card.

After the initial period of change and adjustment, the new system will provide library users with several advantages, said Lynda Seeger, technical services librarian.

Having all information in the computer will make the library more efficient, she said; this will result in faster checkout and renewal of materials.

Also, book reserves will be more accurate, she said. Library staff members will be able to tell a patron immediately how many other people are waiting for the same reserved book.

In addition, the staff will be able to tell the borrower how many items are checked out on his or her library card and if there are any fines or overdue materials, Seeger said.

Because of the new computer system, the library has a few new policies. To borrow materials, the library patron must have his card with him. There will be a charge of $1 for a lost library card. Overdue fines for most materials will be 5 cents per day excluding days the library is closed, for both juvenile and adult materials. The loan period for most materials will be 21 days.

Items will be due on all days of the week the library is open, not just on Friday.

Renewals by telephone have been temporarily discontinued. However, when the system is fully implemented, this service will be reinstated, Seeger said.

Shutterbugs pick their year's best for regional club

Maxine Duniphan covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 831-3714.

The Camera Explorers Club, with members from East Alton, Hartford, Mitchell and Wood River, met Jan. 15 at the Hartford Public Library for their 1989 Awards Banquet.

Following dinner, the following new officers were installed: president, Jerry White; vice president, Lonnie Forchie; and secretary-treasurer, Beverly Zagar, who presided over a short meeting, some camera talk and the presentation of trophies.

Trophies were presented in four categories for the yearlong photographic competition. First, second, and third-place winners were recognized for best picture in color prints, black-and-white prints, and color slides. And one trophy was awarded to the best photographer of the year.

Earl Nialero, Robert Bethel, and John White, respectively, were winners of the color prints category. Forchie, the big winner, captured all the trophies in the black-and-white prints and the color slides categories. He also won the "Photographer of the Year" honors.

Forchie is not only an avid photographer who does his own darkroom development, he is an accomplished mandolin player, playing with a blue grass band. His mandolin was the subject of his black-and-white print that took first place in the black-and-white division and was instrumental in winning him "Photographer of the Year."

Besides these hobbies, Forchie is a full-time employee at the Olin Corp. in East Alton.

The Sunday Journal incorrectly stated the date of the Faith Chapel General Baptist Church, 664 Ashland Ave., special Valentine's Day service. The service will be held today (Sunday) at the church.

The all-day service will include songs by the Joyful Noise gospel group at both the morning and afternoon worship services.

At noon, a covered-dish dinner will be served in the Fellowship Hall. Everybody is welcomed to attend, according to the Rev. Don Gaines, pastor, who will be the speaker. There will be no Sunday evening service.

Sonnet Weeks and daughter, Shawn, of Blue Spruce Court, have returned from Cape Girardeau, Mo., where they visited Weeks' daughter, Tammy Weeks. Tammy Weeks attends college at the Southeast Missouri University there. The weekend visit was to join Tammy in celebrating her birthday, Feb. 2.

Sarah Watson of Tennessee Avenue is home from St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she underwent tests.

Tom Scott of West Chain of Rocks Road is home from Christian Northeast Hospital in St. Louis, where he received treatment for a lung ailment.

Extra! Extra!

Woman's movie role not much, but it was fun

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

"One taste and you're hooked," is the motto the makers of "White Palace" affixed to the burger boxes they had made up for the movie, which was filmed in St. Louis during the fall. That motto about sums up the way Granite City's Lynn Mefford reacted to being an extra in the movie, which stars Susan Sarandon and James Spader.

"It was very, very interesting," said Mefford, 45, while eating lunch at a restaurant in the Central West End of St. Louis, where she works as a receptionist at the Central Institute for the Deaf, near Barnes Hospital.

When she and her husband, John, heard there would be a "cattle call" for extras and bit parts, it sounded like fun and they decided to attend.

John got to drive a car in one scene, and Lynn worked four days in the filming of three scenes.

In one of the scenes, she walked past the camera "about 97 times," or so it seemed, she said. It's at the beginning of the movie in the bar where stars Sarandon and Spader meet.

Another shot had her sitting at a table during a country-western dance scene in the same bar. Both scenes were filmed in a tavern on South Broadway called, in real life, Dweezle McRump's.

A third shot was of her driving down St. Louis Avenue in north St. Louis in her blue Ford Escort, which she describes as "rusty through inside and out."

(The producers were big on junky cars; this reporter knows several people whose particularly nasty looking vehicles were used in street scenes.)

Mefford has no idea whether she will appear in the actual film. "I may wind up on the cutting room floor," she said. "Because several cameras were filming simultaneously, 'You can't tell whether you're in the camera or not.'"

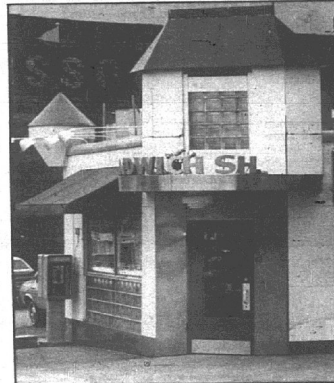

She almost got her picture in the paper, though. During one of the last scenes filmed, the shot in which she is sitting at a table, the producers allowed a St. Louis newspaper photographer in. The photo ran in the paper, but it was cropped right where she would have appeared.

"I sent that picture to my daughter in Las Vegas with a big X where I was sitting," she said. If Mefford does wind up on the silver screen, it will be a double stroke of luck. Mefford is active with the Cahokia-based Milice de Ste. Famille and other community groups and, hence, is rarely home on Saturdays; the casting people called her on a Saturday morning, asking her to show up that afternoon for filming.

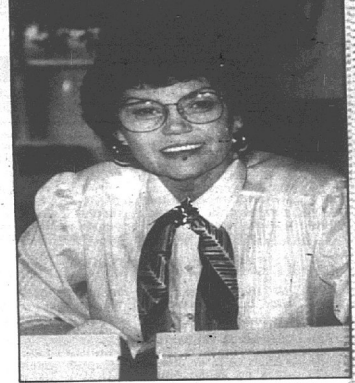

"White Palace" is based on a novel by former St. Louisan Glenn Savan.

It tells of how a young Jewish suburban advertising exec meets and has an affair with an older woman who is a hamburger waitress from the Downtown section of near-north St. Louis.

The "White Palace" of the title was modeled after White Castle, but the itty-bitty-burger chain wouldn't allow any of their stores to be used in the filming; so the producers picked a sandwich shop at 18th and Olive streets and dressed it up to look like a palace, complete with turrets and flags.

The movie wasn't Mefford's first experience with acting, however. She has been in a number of Summerstage productions here.

But she said plays and movies are completely different animals in terms of how they are put together. Movies are usually shot out of sequence; plays are rehearsed in sequence.

During her walk-through scene, the second half of it was shot first. "I thought, 'How in the world is this going to connect with anything?'" She found out later, when the other half was shot.

Much of the time during the 10- to 12-hour shooting days (for which she was paid $60 a day) was spent sitting around. "I did a lot of this," she said, twiddling her thumbs.

She said everything went smoothly for the most part. All the extras were told to bring a couple of outfits to wear, and if the outfits weren't exactly what the producers wanted, the extras would be given clothes from the wardrobe unit.

"The only trick was, if you were in the same scene a second day, you had to dress exactly the same, with the same hairdo and makeup," she said. "Everybody, from the crew to the production people, was very cooperative. I'm sure there were times they would like to have screamed, but they didn't."

Mefford said Sarandon and Spader didn't act like big stars. Both, she said, "were very polite and pleasant. They acknowledged your presence and said, 'Hello, how are you?'"

She said the experience left her with "a lot more sympathy for movie actors. It's not as easy as it looks. They work very hard, and they certainly work long hours."

"It makes it understandable why they take three to six months off between projects. They need the rest."

Is she waiting anxiously for the film's release, scheduled for this fall?

"Sure! I think we all have enough vanity that it will be interesting, if not exciting, to see myself on the screen."

With scores of St. Louisans appearing as extras in the movie, video cassette sales of "White Palace" locally probably will be brisk. Will Mefford buy a copy if she's pictured in the movie, even if only for a second or two?

"Of course!" she said.

CWU annual assembly held in Granite City

The annual assembly of Church Women United was held on Jan. 18 at Calvary Baptist Church, 30th St. and Washington Ave.

Host Rev. Fred Boatright welcomed the group and gave the invocation. There were approximately 50 people in attendance representing churches in the Quad City area. Lu Tabor, Bert Cottrell and Dorothy Watson were introduced as "first timers."

Dorothy Kinney, president, welcomed the group and asked for the adoption of the 1990 budget. Yearly reports were given by their chairmen. Burdine Holtzer gave the history of the "Least Coin" which began in East India in 1958 and is adopted by many churches worldwide.

Future dates for celebrations were announced, including the World Day of Prayer at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church on March 2.

Installation of officers was conducted by Ola

Jones, the Southwest Area representative of Church Women United. She installed Mae Lee as president for the next two years; Marilou Lybarger, first vice president; Ruth Jensen, second vice president; Joyce Bennington, secretary; Helen Todoroff, treasurer; and Millie Clements as a member of the nominating committee.

A soup and dessert luncheon was served at the close of the meeting.

Plant south of Taracorp would also be consolidated into the mound, as would excavated materials from the Venice and sites in Eagle Park Acres which were filled with material from the piles.

"The EPA would need to pave the property on which digging occurred," said the EPA's Bradley.

"The resulting mound would be capped with a synthetic liner, clay, top soil and sod, and the site would be monitored to ensure that no lead leaches into the water table," Bradley said.

"Concern about their children's safety and about property values dominated the questions and comments leveled by citizens Thursday night."

"High lead levels in the body can result in damage to the nervous system, the kidneys, the digestive system and the blood-forming process. Lead is most hazardous to children; it can stunt growth, harm mental development and impair hearing," authorities say.

Mary Margaret Nonn submitted a document asserting that many of her relatives who grew up in the area around Taracorp died of cancer. A man said 14 people in one block near Taracorp had died of cancer.

"But toxicologist Long said lead is not considered to be a potent carcinogen. Long said he passed Granite City Steel on the way in."

"That coking operation could have a much greater effect" as a carcinogen, he said.

John Ervin, an alderman from Venice, said that lead levels in Venice that had been filled with lead waste, but all of them, EPA's Bradley seemed visibly shocked at this.

Later, Milton Morris, a long-time businessman in Venice, agreed with Ervin about the number of contaminated alleys. Morris suggested the best way to deal with that problem would be to pave the alleys with concrete.

Chris Risinger, who lives with her husband and two young children across State Street from the big pile, asked, "How big of a pile am I going to be looking at when the cleanup is done, and who is going to buy my house?"

Laura Whewell
Whewell

Laura Ellen Whewell, 66, of Granite City died at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 10, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was a patient since Jan. 17. She had been ill since December 1986.

Mrs. Whewell was a 60-year resident of Roodhouse, Ill., where she was born April 28, 1923. She had resided in Granite City since September 1987.

Prior to retiring last July, Mrs. Whewell was employed for 27 years as a packer at Mobil Oil Corp. in Jacksonville, Ill.

She was a member of the Christian Church in Roodhouse. Her husband, Harvey L. Whewell, died Oct. 25, 1979, and a sister, Marcela Boushaid, died Dec. 9, 1989.

Among the survivors are two daughters, Ruth Ann Fitzgerald and Mrs. Edwin (Lee) Whewell, both of Roodhouse; a sister, Margaret Auferheide of Granite City; and three grandchildren.

The Rev. Melinda Everett Calvin will officiate. Burial will be at Pine Tree Cemetery, Patterson, Ill. The family suggests memorials to Hospice.

pletely out of focus with reality."

Brett Hanke, Granite City's public works director, said it was irrelevant whether lead was present in 500 parts per million or 1,000 parts per million.

"Let's use a standard we can hang our hat on blood lead levels," Hanke said. He said the most sensible approach would be to test all residents' blood to find out if there was any real danger and clean up accordingly.

Long, the public health toxicologist, said later he tended to agree with Hanke.

"I'm not sure that 500 parts per million (as a soil standard) is justified, based on any science," Long said. "If elevated blood levels don't exist, then what's the problem?"

Long said blood tests for lead cost about $25. He said he was going to suggest to his superior in the Department of Public Health that the department conduct comprehensive free blood tests of residents in the affected area.

Hanke also assailed the EPA for the manner in which the meeting was handled. Two hours and 45 minutes of the meeting were devoted to describing the optional plans for cleanup, and fielding questions and answers. Then followed a period for public comment.

Hanke gave an impassioned speech before being cut off at the EPA-stipulated 10-minute limit on comments.

"I'm somewhat incensed with the EPA's approach to this meeting tonight," Hanke said. "They (the EPA) spoke for 2 1/2 hours before soliciting comments. Two-thirds of the people who signed up to speak have already left."

"The real purpose of this meeting was to sell alternative H (the EPA plan)," Hanke said. "The EPA will accept public comment on its plan until Feb. 24 and it will decide by March 30 whether to implement the plan."

Written comments may be sent to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Office of Public Affairs, Region 5, 230 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60604.

Survivors include her sister, Ruth Jones of Belleville; and two brothers, Lamont Lancaster and Dan Lancaster, both of Granite City.

same date, said Granite City Police Detective Richard Schardan. The only item confiscated was a 6-by-9-inch stenographic notepad.

Schardan declined to explain the significance of the search. However, the activities of the mother and stepfather and the child's whereabouts at specific times are reportedly part of the investigation.

The St. Louis medical examiner said Heather died of a ruptured bowel caused by a blow to her abdomen and that child abuse was suspected as the cause of death.

There has been no official report received of the autopsy results, Schardan said.

"Over all, most of the people we've talked to have been cooperative," he said.

Heather was initially taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 8:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 1, for complaints of vomiting. The infant was transferred by helicopter at 10:10 that night to the St. Louis hospital.

A babysitter, who asked not to be identified, said the infant had been vomiting Wednesday and Thursday.

Charges rest with the Madison County State's Attorney's Office and the grand jury.

community, where to go with our trash," Cruse said. "But, sure, we want to cooperate with the county and other communities if it's possible."

Sixth Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker, chairman of the Sanitation Committee, was less pleased with the news.

"I think they should have met with someone in Granite City before starting to make proposals for," Whitaker said.

"There should have been some discussion with city officials—the Sanitation Committee, the Water Treatment Committee, the mayor. Really, all the aldermen should have been involved."

Cruse said he agreed that Whitaker, as sanitation chairman, should have been included in discussions of the project.

"But I don't know that the county can really make the difference," Cruse said. "I'm sure they will start talking to us after they vote."

Dog has his day as Brett gets 50th

I've never bought the line about "Every dog has his day."

Dogs, in general, have fewer coherent things to say than Virvius Jones does. The one thing they do have going for them that Virvius doesn't is that if one of them tells you something, you probably can believe it. That said, allow me to offer you my paw and lick your face. This dog has had his day.

I had every intention of serving as your Brett Hull News Bureau chief Tuesday. It was all set up. It was going to be the first meeting of the Golden Brett, the Golden Jet and Mr. First-Nighter. I could hardly wait — 50 goals in 54 games. It was a very big deal. That may be a surprise. I imagine there is a suspicion among readers that reporters are too jaded, too hard for their own — or anyone else's — good. But this time? No. Fifty times no. What Brett Hull is doing this season is a big deal.

Believe it or not, some pick at the things Hull still can't — or doesn't — do. Others see the kid heading up a 1990s march to Stanley Cup glory. One view is unfair, the other unfathomable. Average fans, on the other hand, need barely a period to get a line on Hull. The kid lights things up. Imagine Jack Clark getting a dozen at-bats a game. That's what Hull is like.

The Blues management will find out that fun does not come cheap when it finally gets around to signing — the Blues wouldn't screw this up, would they? — the kid to a new contract.

If you think the kid is a big deal, you should have seen his old man. In the dark ages, long before there was a Wayne Gretzky, there was a Bobby Hull. But where Gretzky is all things sweet, slick and efficient, Bobby Hull was a punch in the nose delivered at blinding speed. When Gretzky was a golden punk, Bobby Hull was hockey's golden child.

So Tuesday was going to be a big, big deal. And, for the Hulls — Golden Jr. and Sr. — it was. Hooray for the 13,000 fans who showed up and screamed themselves hoarse on every Hull shift, who went nuts on the false-start No. 50 and nuttier still on the Real Thing.

As for me: Roll over, Rover. Brett Hull got goal No. 50 in the third period of Tuesday's win against Toronto. His dad, who turned the 50-goal trick four times during a Hall of Fame career, was there to see it. Reportedly, a bit of a tear appeared in the old man's eye when the kid pumped in the shot.

I say reportedly because I was not in ideal position to personally gauge the mist level in the peepers of Golden Sr.

As best I can figure the time, when young

MSCHA playoffs get under way

The road to the St. Louis Arena started Friday for 20 area high school hockey teams.

The Mid-States Club Hockey Association playoffs began Friday with four wild-card games. Granite City (10-8-3) plays a two-game series with Vianney (15-4-2), with the first game Saturday and the second game Monday. The winner will probably play Kirkwood (16-5) in the quarterfinals next weekend.

DeSmet finished 19-1-1 in league play this year and is the favorite to repeat as champions in the 19th annual Challenge Cup. The title game is Feb. 28 at the Arena, with the third-place game played at 3:45 p.m. DeSmet won the West Division. Kirkwood won the South, John Burroughs (12-8-1) won the Central and Hazelwood Central (11-6-4) won the North.

Six teams missed the playoffs — Lindbergh (8-13), McCluer (7-13-1), Mehlville (5-16), Hazelwood East (2-16-3), St. Mary's (2-19) and McCluer North (0-2-1).

Playoff tickets are $5. Tickets for the Feb. 28 games at the Arena are $5.

Girls beat East Side; face Jerseyville (25-1) Tuesday

EAST ST. LOUIS — Allen Lobdell figures he's now accomplished the bare minimum that was expected of him. Now it's time for the Lady Warriors to explore some uncharted waters.

Granite City rolled to its second straight regional championship with a 64-49 win over East St. Louis on Thursday in the East St. Louis Regional final. Senior forward Priscilla Meyenburg was the main weapon with 20 points and 10 rebounds.

"Everybody was expecting us to win this regional," said Lobdell. "And don't think I didn't think about that this week. I figured if we lose this one they might be looking for a new coach."

He was kidding, but it's true this regional lacked the excitement of last year's. The Lady Warriors beat a much stronger East Side team last year at home and went wild. They cut down the nets at Memorial Gymnasium, but didn't even bother to do that Thursday. They were ready to go home and get ready for the next step.

And that will be a difficult one. Granite City (18-5) will face Jerseyville (25-1) in the Highland Sectional semifinals Tuesday at approximately 8 p.m. East St. Louis Lincoln (20-0) will face either Edwardsville or Triad in the first game at 6:30.

"I know Jerseyville is well-coached and plays good defense," said Lobdell. "And that's when we're at our best, playing as a team and playing defense."

The Flyerettes (4-18) stayed with the Lady Warriors for one quarter. In fact, Deidre Elliott had a chance for a 10-10 tie when she was fouled after a basket early in the second quarter. But she missed the free throw and Granite City scored the next 11 points. It was 31-21 at halftime and 48-28 after three quarters.

"It's the same old thing," said Lobdell. "We have a couple of bad minutes each game. I hope it's not coaching. We got going when Kim (Pawlak) hit some shots, but it was Priscilla who really got us going. She got open right in the middle and made her shots. That's two real good games for her near the end of the year."

Meyenburg made nine of 13 shots from the floor and led the team in scoring for the second time in three games. That's a big lift for a team which is always looking for someone to lift the scoring burden.

Granite City's SCORING: 7 14 7 21-50
EAST ST. LOUIS: 10 21 17 16-54
EAST ST. LOUIS: 10 21 17 16-54
Granite City: Meyenburg 20 (10 rebounds), Cavaness 16, Pawlak 14, Bequette 10, Sykes 8, Land 6 (1 3-pointer, 8 assists), Wheeler 1, Bequette 0 (8 assists), Sykes 0 (1 3-pointer), PT-4/12, PF-12.

den from center Jennifer Cavaness (16 points). "Teams are going to put a crowd around Jennifer," said Lobdell. "Priscilla really opened it up with her shooting."

Meyenburg also led the team with 10 rebounds and has her scoring average up to 10.5 and her rebounding up to 7.3 per game. Pawlak chipped in 14 points and six assists. Senior Michelle Bequette didn't score, but led the way with eight assists from her new guard position.

Jennifer Jones led the Flyerettes with 17 points and Marketa Burns added 14.

After repeating their regional performance of a year ago, the Lady Warriors certainly aren't hoping for an encore in the sectional. Jerseyville handed them a 73-40 thumping at Highland last year. The Panthers were a senior-dominated team and made it to the state quarterfinals. They rebuilt — or reloaded — this year and haven't lost since a 48-40 loss to Southwestern Platts — one of the top Class A teams around — in the season opener Nov. 13.

Included in their 25-game winning streak is a 57-53 win over Belleville West, the Lady Warriors' chief nemesis.

"We rely on defense and we rebound very well," said Panther coach Denise Kelly, whose team won the Mississippi Valley Conference again.

Angie Koenig, a 5-11 junior center, leads Jerseyville with 13.0 points per game. Kelly Sebastian, the 5-7 younger sister of former Panther and current SIUE player Lori Sebastian, also averages in double figures, as does 5-8 Angie Lyles. The key to the team might be 5-3 sophomore guard Kathy Sinclair, who leads the area with seven assists per game.

Jerseyville is among the area leaders in defense, allowing only 39.4 points per game. And although they have no big scorers, they are also among the offensive leaders with 63.3 points per game. The Panthers beat Civic Memorial 62-39 in the Jerseyville Regional final Thursday.

"There's an awful lot of talent on this team," Lobdell said of the Lady Warriors. "If we can shoot around 50 percent we'll have a chance. We've had some big games this year where we only shot 25 percent."

Lincoln beat Belleville East 58-33 to win its 13th straight regional Thursday. East's elimination means the only two teams to beat the Lady Warriors this year — Belleville West and East — have been eliminated.

Warriors drop 6th straight at West

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

BELEVILLE — When the Warriors beat Belleville West last month, they frustrated Maroon guard Dan Biegler.

But Biegler was the one smiling on Friday as he poured in five three-pointers as West handed Granite City its sixth straight loss, 62-51. Biegler was one of five Maroons in double figures as West improved to 11-10 (4-4 in the Southwestern Conference) heading into Saturday's game against Affton.

The Warriors fell to 9-12, 2-6 in the SWC. Granite City, which struggles offensively even at full strength, was hurt further by the absence of 6-7 sophomore center Jeff Smith. He sat out the game with an eye injury. John Van Buskirk had 21 points and Smith's twin brother Brian had 14, but West's balance was too much for the Warriors.

"We don't want to go to war without Jeff," said Warrior coach Bill Ohlendorf. "The kids tried hard, but we're obviously not nearly as efficient without Jeff."

It was the second straight conference win for the Maroons. And West coach Bill Schmidt thinks his team is on the way back from a bad month of January.

"We had a terrible month," he said. "But we've turned it around. Everybody's trying now, so that makes me happy. Biegler was a little more open this time than he was at Granite City. If you give him the shot, Biegler is one of the best three-point shooters in the area."

Biegler had a conventional

GRANITE CITY SCORING: 10 10 17-49
BELEVILLE WEST: 10 10 18-40
GRANITE CITY: Van Buskirk 21, B. Smith 14, Thomas 8 (7 3-pointers), Oles 6 (1 3-pointer), Oles 2, Stephens 2, FO-10/28 (2 3-pointers), FT-12/22, PF-14.
BELEVILLE WEST: Biegler 16 (8 3-pointers), Lisch 12, Oles 11, Muskrat 10, Stephens 7, Henshaw 4, FO-20/48 (8 3-pointers), FT-11/22, PF-17.

three-point play in addition to his five bombs to account for all of his 18 points. The Warriors could have been much better off at halftime (a 25-18 deficit) as West had 10 fouls in the half to only four for Granite City. But the Warriors made only seven of 13 free throws.

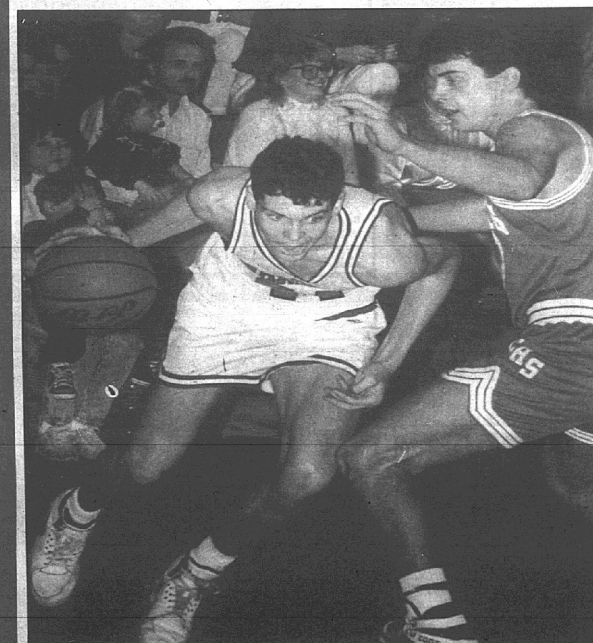

"We had a couple different guys who missed two free throws each," said Ohlendorf. "And we didn't do a real good job of swinging the ball from side to side on offense. It's a lot easier for a team to sag in on Brian when Jeff isn't playing."

While the Warriors were missing one of their big men, Maroon center Jeff Henshaw played sparingly. He scored four points and made several sharp passes which led to easy baskets for Rob Lisch (12 points), Monte Dwyer (11) and Kurt Muskrat (10).

"Jeff hasn't practiced in two weeks," said Schmidt of the 6-6, 245-pounder who has been sick. "We decided to get him in and out when he got tired. He's very good at making the post reaction pass."

"We hadn't counted on seeing Henshaw," said Ohlendorf. "He played up a little higher on the post against the trap and made some nice passes. And that was

BRIAN SMITH had 14 points Friday, but the absence of his brother Jeff limited the Warriors offensively and defensively.

Sanford-Brown sends Valentine's wishes to hospitalized kids

Students at Sanford-Brown Business College in Granite City will be sharing Valentine's Day wishes with children hospitalized at Shriners' Children's Hospital in St. Louis.

In the suggestion of Judi Candela, an English/psychology instructor and counselor at Sanford-Brown, students created or purchased cards or wrote a personal note to one of the 80 patients at the hospital.

"We have the opportunity to brighten the day of these very special children by simply sharing some cards and messages with them," said Candela.

The spirit of the Valentine project extended outside the campus as well. Suzanne Whitaker, an accounting student at the college told her children Mark, 3, and Amanda, 4, about the children at the hospital.

"I explained to my kids that there were other children in the hospital whom they could make a little bit happier by sending a Valentine," said Whitaker.

She and her children made a special Valentine box and filled it with custom-made cards, each with a page from a coloring book and a crayon attached.

Angie Becker plans to enter Sanford-Brown next fall. Currently, she works at Creve Coeur Day Care Center. Her students at the center also made cards for the children at Shriners' Hospital.

Karen Barron, her husband and five children also made Valentines for the hospitalized youngsters.

Several hundred cards have been collected and will be delivered to the children at Shriners' Hospital Feb. 12.

"I am so pleased that everyone has responded so enthusiastically to the Valentine project. We just want the kids at Shriners' to know we're all thinking about them," said Candela.

Granite City places in stock market game

A Granite City High School team captured third place in a regional stock market simulation sponsored by the Illinois Council on Economic Education.

The prize-winning team in the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville event was led by teacher-advisor Mel Bunting. Team members were Nicole Schneider, Tara Lipscomb, Monica Evans and Teresa Isom. Students worked to gain a greater understanding of economics through simulated trading in the stock market.

The team and its advisor received recognition recently during a banquet in their honor on the SIUE campus.

In the SIUE region, 158 teams from 40 schools participated in the game. Statewide, 675 teams represented 96 schools.

Each team invested an imaginary $100,000 in major U.S. common stocks. During the 10-week period, teams received weekly portfolios along with regional and state standings reports.

At the end of the tenth week, the portfolios were evaluated to find the top four teams in each region earning the most money on their initial investments.

"All participants win," said Dr. David A. Dietterle, president of the Illinois Council. "The Stock Market Game serves as an excellent teaching tool by introducing students to financial markets and how they affect, and are affected by, the world around us."

The Illinois Council, based at Northern Illinois University, works with school systems and teachers to develop materials that improve economic literacy in Illinois. The Council maintains 10 centers around the state.

Information on the Stock Market Game and the work of the Illinois Council on Economic Education may be obtained by calling (815) 753-0354.
